The school music challenge

by Sam Jones

Do you like playing music for people? Greg Smith is a music teacher at my school and he asks a student to play music in the playground at every break for his music challenge. Today it's Ann Norton's turn.

What instrument can you play, Ann?

Two actually – the saxophone and the drums. I love jazz and rock – but I think jazz is better than rock for the challenge and I prefer it. I want to play the saxophone today. My drums are cool, but they're heavier and I can't carry them to school!

How are you feeling just before the music challenge?

I'm getting ready and I'm feeling excited. There are some students from different classes in the playground, but most of them are friends from my class. Everyone is watching me and now I'm feeling a bit nervous. I hope they like this song!

Do you like this challenge?

It's more exciting than music lessons! But it's hard because your friends are watching. Some people don't like jazz, you see. My best friend Maria says she loves it, but my other classmates say it's alright, but they prefer rock!

Hi Rosie,

Evie
